Consultation response from on-line form

Consultation: Approving the development of new Apprenticeship Standards
(Expressions of Interest): Master builder with a major in multi-disciplined joinery

Response date: 11 September 2015

Response (Box 68):

There is no mention in the proposed Standard to the specific requirements of the heritage sector. The IHBC accepts that for an apprenticeship of relatively short duration specific training on the use of materials and techniques in heritage applications would not be appropriate. However think that the training should include awareness that the heritage sector has specific requirements and skills and that fulfilling these should be a matter for those with relevant expertise.
