People Power - Catalyst for Change

IHBC's 2016 Annual School focuses on 'people power', because people are the catalyst for care and change in our historic places. People are passionate about conservation and without them where would our historic environment be?

In recognition of this passion our 2016 conference explores the breadth of those involved with School Speakers reflecting the diversity of those involved: practitioners, key personnel, and perhaps of most importance, the community groups and trusts directly involved with their local heritage.

Highlights include:

- Loyd Grossman, keynote speaker
- 2015 Heritage Angels Award Winner, The Birmingham Coffin Works
- People from across the UK talking about their own challenges and successes, and how being the catalyst has generated vital change in the historic environment.

Our heritage is important, a valuable and precious but finite resource, so let's harness 'people power' to ensure that heritage has a future.
